The German Program in the Department of Linguistics and Germanic, Slavic, Asian and African Languages and the Creativity Exploratory invite you cordially to the following two workshops:

Social Network Analysis in the Humanities Classroom: Visualizing Literary Interpretation with Gephi

Gephi, an interactive, open-source visualization platform for networks, has the potential of transforming literary interpretation in the humanities classroom. In these workshops, faculty and students have the opportunity to learn the basics with hands-on activities and establish connections with faculty on campus.

Workshop 1: Monday, April 8, 2013; 11:30AM-12:20PM in B-129 Wells Hall
Workshop 2: Tuesday, April 9, 2013; 10:20AM-11:10AM in B-125 Wells Hall

The workshops are led by David D. Kim (Assistant Professor of German and Global Studies), Scott Schopieray (Director of Academic Technology), and student assistants at the Creativity Exploratory. For more information, please email Professor Kim at ddkim@msu.edu or call (517) 355-4760.
